The Devon and Exeter Institution is a thriving independent library and educational charity in the heart of the City of Exeter.

OUR SPACES

We offer a wonderful combination of old and new and are able to meet the needs of a range of groups and individuals as a venue for a wide variety of events and activities. From our intact galleried Georgian libraries to our newly conserved and improved function rooms and open-air garden areas, the Institution provides unique spaces for conferences, seminars, workshops, meetings, talks, film and television locations and much more.

THE BLUE ROOM

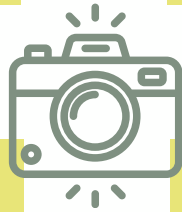

Our Blue Room, overlooking Exeter Cathedral, has been restored to its former Georgian glory as the entertaining space of the 9th Earl of Devon. This breathtaking southwest-facing room retains its original features and has a stunning view over Cathedral Green and is the perfect environment for larger board meetings, professional presentations and seminars, training days, team building events, workshops and larger scale conferences. This flexible space is also available for creative workshops, and movement workshops such as yoga, life drawing and acoustic performances.

THE GREEN ROOM

THE PARLOUR

This ground floor room is the former parlour of the 9th Earl of Devon, William Courtenay, and still retains his Italian marble fireplace dating from 1805, as well as some Art Deco additions added by the proprietors of the Institution in the 1930s. This unique and tranquil room has a breathtaking view of Exeter Cathedral and is ideal for short term hotdesking space, intimate casual meetings, interviews, business networking, small seminar groups, tabletop games groups (DnD, role playing games) and more.

OUR LIBRARY

BESPOKE TOUR & EXHIBITION

Our Outer Library is available for evening hire for special events, celebrations, ceremonies and awards and can also be offered as a location for filming and photo shoots. Various documentaries and BBC features including the BBC One TV series 'Who do you think you are?' have utilised our library for its authentic scholastic backdrop. A site visit to gain further details, and discuss your project or any potential proposed hire is both welcome and recommended to enable us to organise the best possible arrangement for you. To speak to our team about hiring the Library, please contact venue@devonandexeterinstitution.org

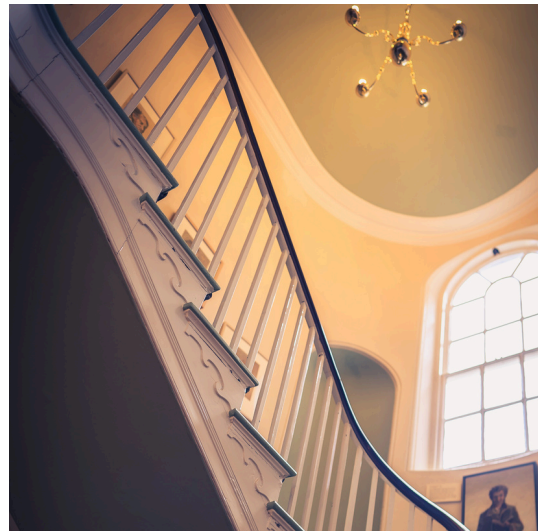

FILMING & PHOTOGRAPHY

The Devon and Exeter Institution's imposing Grade II* listed building and evocative library provides an atmospheric setting for film and photography from small-scale productions and fashion shoots to television dramas and feature films.
